VINEYARD GOTHIC

When Jupiter Kling inherited the Oak Bluffs property shown here, he looked it over and said he'd have to sell it, but first he'd make it a perfect house, ready for anyone to walk in and feel at home.

Two weeks later, he showed before-and-after photographs, reproduced here as drawings, and asked a few friends to list all the changes they could find.

Several people, including Sam, made perfect scores, but after examining the sketches, he said, "Fine, but there's one thing you forgot to do."

What was it? How would you make the house perfect?
